

SPEND NIGHT
IN DOW-WOWS

Delegations Work Desperately on Deals to Grab Votes for Their Candidates.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—All-night conferences, at which weary, bleary-eyed delegates worked frantically on deals whereby their favorite candidates might grab enough of the other candidates' votes to take the lead in the balloting today, were held until dawn broke this morning.

Palmer and his Pennsylvania lieutenants were in conference in Palmer's room on the third floor of the Palace Hotel until an early hour this morning.

Joseph G. Guffey, Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania; Vance C. McCormick, former Democratic national chairman; and Roland S. Morris, formerly American ambassador to Japan, were busily engaged with Palmer in directing the Palmer maneuvers.

In a room in an adjoining corridor "Ed" Moore, campaign manager for Cox, was equally busy with his Ohio lieutenants.

On the sixth floor Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, "held court."

All over the city conferences of some kind were under way all last night. Pretty soon we shall get in the polls the significance of what was agreed upon by the State leaders last night. But we know that most of them are confused.

FORM COX-PALMER PACT.

In the Illinois delegation a Cox-Palmer pact was actually made during the night to check McAdoo. It is an offensive and defensive alliance. Forty of the fifty-eight delegates from Illinois signed a paper, or gave their word to Chairman George E. Brennan, to vote them for Cox or Palmer, as he saw fit, and when he saw that what happened within their ranks occurred later within other State delegations.

Here's a statement by Thomas B. Love, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, now a Dallas, Tex., lawyer, here working like a beaver for McAdoo:

"McAdoo leadership on the first two ballots makes his nomination a certainty. He was a man without an organization behind him—a man who really wasn't a candidate. But he has been drafted for the honor. The very fact that he jumped to the lead on the first ballot, although pitted against men with great machines behind them, and then outgained them on the second poll, convinces me that McAdoo will be a winner without a doubt."

SURE McADOO WILL WIN.

"I am not making guesses as to the exact ballot he will win on, but I don't think it will go beyond eight—maybe it will be less. McAdoo is the popular candidate—the candidate of Democracy."

In rebuttal, Joseph G. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, Democratic National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, said: "McAdoo cannot be nominated. His maximum strength will be 343 votes. We feel that Palmer never had a better chance of being nominated than right now."

The confidences of the Palmerites were further expressed in this way by ex-Congressman Carlin of Virginia, who is Palmer's campaign manager: "A Mitchell Palmer will be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency. Don't let anyone tell you otherwise. Palmer gathered exactly the number of votes on the first ballot that we had anticipated; he gained as we expected on the second. The winning to Palmer will really be a test itself on the third poll, and from then on it will be Palmer all the way. He'll pass all his rivals, take a great lead, and win easily and with a lot of votes to spare."

COX CROWD HOPEFUL.

The Cox crowd, despite the "we'll win" predictions of the Palmer and McAdoo factions, were overflowing with hope.

N.Y. ODDS IN FAVOR
OF GOV. SMITH
AS WINNER

NEW YORK, July 3.—Governor Smith, of New York, swept down the "home stretch" at the San Francisco "track" yesterday a favorite in the betting odds at 8 to 5, by Wall Street quotations. McAdoo and Wilson still held second choice at 9 to 5, the same as the preceding day.

Palmer, Meredith and Marshall were considered the most formidable "dark horses," being quoted at 2 1/2 to 1, 4 to 1, and 2 to 1, respectively. Francis Burton Harrison, the candidate from the Philippines, was entered in the betting lists for the first time yesterday at 10 to 1.

Even money was being offered by one of the big stake-holders in Brooklyn that a "wet" plank would be included in the Democratic platform, but received no takers.

with hope of success for the Ohio governor.

"Before 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon Jimmy Cox will be named the Democratic nominee for the Presidency," said one of his boomers. The third ballot will show a sizable increase for Cox. After that the favorite sons who have been getting complimentary votes will be deserted. And Cox will get them and sweep on to victory."

'Bugs' Baer

Discourses Upon
A G. O. P. Squawk

By BUGS BAER.
(Copyright, 1920.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—When the greatest of all senators, Daddy Time, separates the Republican wheat from the Democratic chaff and the Democratic brands from the G. O. P. burning, it will have been found that two conventions will have been held—and nothing accomplished except what any kitten could have done with a ball of yarn. They got all tangled up.

In an age where even the weather reports are not non-partisan, in an era where there seems to be two kinds of Americans, politicians and those who work for a living, in a time when every man's hand is uplifted against his neighbor in the hope that the neighbor has the par value price of a delegate in a rising market, it seems that two great bodies of unrepresentative citizens could get together and agree on something without first going through the formality of adopting Joe Miller's joke book for a platform, Primrose's Minstrels for a resolutions committee, and pecans, almonds and hickories for a menu.

THE paramount issue of this campaign seems to be the war. Or the war is the campaign. Six of one, or a dozen of the other. Depends on whether a Repub or a Demmie is doing the counting. The war is over, but it isn't. The kite is down, but the tail still flies and Woodrow won't let go of the string.

HAVING peeped in on the Republican convention, Homer Cummings made a beautiful keynote speech. With non-alcoholic gestures and an unfettered voice, he told how the Democrats won the world war and how they allowed the Republicans to share the expense. If there was a Republican in that war he must have been in a German uniform. You tell 'em and we'll hold back the crowd.

IN tabulating the Republican bid in the war, Cummings added their share on a subtracting machine and summed up the Democratic efforts via the multiplication table. Fun is fun, but it is going to be tough on us unconstructed Republicans to bang the pearl-handled door knocker and discover that St. Peter is wearing a McAdoo campaign badge and all the angels are instructed.

HAVING picked the opposition to shredded confetti, the Demmies put the damper on bad Republican booze. They ignored it entirely in the convention hall. Outside the convention it becomes a hoos of a different complexion powder. You can lead the old hoos to water, but you can't make him grow webfeet.

THIS convention is determined to win the biscuit either by fair means or Democratic. It's every man for himself and the tax collector take the hindmost. The panic is on. The means justify both ends. There will be no equity in law nor one-half of one per cent balm in Gilead or points east.

POLITICS is politics, and it's all right to call a spot a dirty old shovel, but why sock a guy with the handle? There are some good Republicans in this country unless the guy who writes the epitaphs is a subsidized liar.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.
STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

LYNN, Mass., July 3.—Differences between employees and the General Electric Company have been adjusted, and the threatened strike of 10,000 skilled workers which threatened to spread to other cities has been averted, it was announced today.

A union employee was reinstated and other differences go to arbitration. Small strikes at the plant were called off.

SUFFRAGE PLANK
SUITS MISS PAUL

Commends Platform Action at San Francisco—Women Plan
Convention Here.

"The suffrage plank, as adopted by the Democratic national convention, is entirely satisfactory to us," said Miss Alice Paul, leader of the militant suffragists, here today. "It is exactly the same as that drafted by our committee, except that it is even more specific in mentioning the names of the States urged to ratify the amendment," she continued. "The same plank was submitted to the Republican convention at Chicago, but the results obtained there were, of course, far less satisfactory."

Miss Paul said the campaign for Democratic ratification would continue despite the convention's action. She also stated she has assurances that the Republicans are making every effort to bring about ratification by Vermont before a Democratic State can take favorable action. "The party which secures ratification first will, of course, get the credit," said Miss Paul.

A national convention of suffragists will be held immediately following ratification, Miss Paul stated, and that the matter will be put squarely up to the women of the country in order that they may judge which party they should be grateful to for their enfranchisement. The present plan is to hold the convention in Washington in September.

While declining to assert the women of the country would vote any particular ticket, Miss Paul stated she thought it a reasonable assumption that they would not forget the party which brought about their enfranchisement. "The negroes haven't forgotten what the Republican party did for them," she added significantly.

"DRY AGENTS" HOLD UP
TRUCKS, SEIZE WHISKEY

PATERSON, N. J., July 3.—Three men, representing themselves as prohibition enforcement agents, held up three motor trucks laden with $100,000 worth of whiskey on Lincoln Highway, near here, early today, and compelled the drivers to flee at the point of a revolver.

The driver reported the hold-up to the Paterson police. The whiskey—500 cases—was being taken to New York from Baltimore, the drivers say.

MAKES MANY CHARGES,
BUT WIFE BEATS SUIT

UNIONTOWN, July 3.—Although he testified that his wife beat him over the head with a poker and other weapons, "thousands of times," that she cut him with a butcher knife; had thrown flat-irons at him; had threatened to poison his food, and had carried a revolver to kill him, Robert Lee Shackelford, of Fairchance, near here, was refused a divorce from Gertrude Shackelford, and also denied the privilege of his three children.

Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen, in denying the divorce, declared that Mrs. Shackelford had made specific charges of cruelty and also had testified of doing other folk's sewing and giving her husband the money, and that the husband had not introduced sufficient evidence to prove his contentions.

1,000 OFFICIALS OF 16
ROADS TO PASS ON WAGES

CHICAGO, July 3.—More than 1,000 officials of the sixteen railroad brotherhoods will meet in Chicago July 19 to pass on the wage award to be announced at that time by the railroad labor board. It was announced today.

Platform Just Dish of
Piffle Flanked By Con
And Bunk, Says Russell

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.
(Written Expressly for International News Service.)
(Copyright, 1920, by International News Service.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—A very pleasant social event transpired in our midst yesterday when a reunion took place here of the Society of Good Old Verbal Friends, being entertained at dinner at our convention hall by many of our most distinguished citizens.

Among those present were to be noted Mr. Strict Economy, Mr. Point With Pride, Mr. We Denounce, Mr. View With Alarm, Mr. We Done It, and Mr. That Great President, Mr. Josh the Farmers, Mr. We Won the War, Mr. Hand the Soldier the Glad Mitt With Nothing in It, Mr. We're For Woman Suffrage, When We Couldn't Any Longer Hamstring It, and That Well-known and Popular mixer, Mr. Earnest Sympathy.

LOOK QUITE WELL.

Many of those that joined in the exception of these timeworn veterans observed with feeling that the old friends could get together only once in four years, but that considering their advanced years they were looking quite well. An enjoyable time was had by all, the height of same being reached when our well-known caterer, Carter Glass, served the platform dinner, the principal feature of which, cooked under Mr. Glass' own experienced and careful supervision, was a large dish of that dark green, velvety piffle which is his specialty and has made his name justly famous from Lynchburg to Fairfax Court House.

This was flanked by neatly prepared side dishes of bunk and con, greatly appreciated by the guests who were unanimous in the verdict that Mr. Glass is a past master of the culinary art, which we all know him to be. The bunk was especially highly praised, many of the guests declaring they had never tasted better, which, considering the time of year and the backward season for bunk, was considered high praise.

UNPLEASANT INCIDENTS.

We greatly regret being obliged to report that some unpleasant incidents marred an otherwise perfect day. By some deplorable oversight or reprehensible carelessness, which we hope will be investigated, a low, common workman was allowed to wander into the inclosure set apart for the distinguished guests of the day. It is alleged that he thought he had some kind of petition or request to make. He was quickly detected and thrown out, and according to our report fell heavily upon his aridular appendage, which we hope will be a lesson to him. The guests were very nice about this regrettable intrusion, and said they were not annoyed, but it is to be hoped that meeting of that kind will not be allowed to happen again.

Some other persons of the lower order were inclined to unruly and ill-bred remarks and to make a disturbance by asking impertinent questions. Thus one of them demanded to know exactly why the Democrats of the South had so long defeated and prevented the passage of the bill which would reduce the cost of living, and what was the difference between a Democratic padded fat and a Republican padded fat.

We understand that among the degraded multitude there is some disposition to find other fault with Mr. Glass' management of this refined and recherche affair. We desire to state distinctly for the benefit of those ill-mannered trouble-makers that everything was cooked exactly according to reports obtained straight from Washington itself, and, therefore, having the highest authority, and that if there are any more low brow comments of this order we shall take the liberty of reminding them that there is still, we believe, a department of justice in this country, verb. sap.

THIRD PARTY HAS CHANCE.

Among the entertainments of the day was the receipt of a report that the chances of a third political party were now held in some quarters to be greatly improved. This caused much amusement, it being the consensus of opinion that Wall Street, the central financial powers and the ruling classes being so well placated and treated right all the way through, a third party would be only a joke and would never interrupt the payment of tribute where our tribute is due.

It is only fair to add that besides showing himself to be a first-class cook, Mr. Glass revealed remarkable talents as an entertainer, his remarks when he served the dinner and his rendition of highly comical selections entitled, "Hawaii and the Philippines," convulsing the audience with laughter. It being explained that Mr. Glass in his long and distinguished career had been so busy cooking things he hadn't had time to learn the pronunciation of the English language.

It was announced that the next reunion of the society will take place four years hence and that members would in the meantime go into their usual retirement.

KING'S AUTO HITS CART.

BRUSSELS, July 3.—King Albert, while driving his automobile home from Switzerland today, collided with a cart near the Franco-Belgian frontier.

The automobile was damaged but King Albert was uninjured. He continued his journey in a hired car.

HARDING MOTORING
TO HIS OHIO HOME

Republican Nominee and Wife
Making Trip to Marion in Favorite Way.

By A. O. HAYWARD.
International News Service.
Senator Harding and his personal headquarters staff started today for Marion, Ohio. After Monday noon the Senator will be "at home" in Marion to all Republicans and other callers.

The Senator with Mrs. Harding left about 10:30 o'clock this morning in their automobile for the drive across the Allegheny mountains to their home. This is their favorite way of making the trip to and from Washington. They have made it many times since Mr. Harding began his term in the Senate.

Sometimes the Senator pilots the automobile, but generally he leaves this duty to the chauffeur, who has been with him for years. On this trip the Senator plans to get all the rest he can, and the run will be made leisurely. The Senator and Mrs. Harding will spend tonight and tomorrow night at towns along the route.

The private office staff of Senator Harding will leave this afternoon at 4:10 o'clock on a special car attached to a regular Pennsylvania railroad train. It is due to reach Marion about tomorrow noon. Twenty secretaries, stenographers, typists, and special clerks make up the personal staff.

Senator Harding will not reach Marion until about noon Monday. At that time the correspondence and homecoming celebration will be in full swing there. The committee in charge of the celebration plans a rousing greeting for the Senator.

After things have quieted down at Marion, the Senator will begin the draft of his speech of acceptance, on which the work has been delayed by his numerous callers here and by the special conferences that were invited by him.

One of the last callers on Senator Harding yesterday was Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, a Democratic contender for the nomination at San Francisco. The Senators are personal friends, and Senator Hitchcock called to say good-by and wish Senator Harding a safe journey and good health.

The last hours of Senator Harding's stay at his office were spent in clearing up the correspondence and in making arrangements for the transfer of his office and his trip to Marion.

SOCIALISTS CONVENE
IN NEW YORK TODAY

Candidates Meet to Nominate
Candidates for Governor and
U. S. Senator.

NEW YORK, July 3.—About 150 delegates from thirty-one counties will attend the unofficial State convention of the Socialist party which opens here today. The convention will nominate candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, United States Senator and other offices.

Resolutions endorsing the five ousted Socialist Assemblymen and suggesting means of aiding their campaign for re-election are expected to be passed. Two of the expelled Assemblymen, August Claessens and Charles Solomon, are among the delegates. Announcement was made that Morris Hillquit, one of the party's leaders, would not attend the convention because of failing health.

It is understood that the State platform will closely follow that of the national convention. Julius Gerber, secretary of the New York county organization, said that emphasis would be laid on the action of the State Assembly in expelling the five Socialists.

The convention will be called to order by Charles W. Noonan, of Schenectady, Socialist State secretary.

LANDS SIX-FOOT STURGEON.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., July 3.—Asa Curtis had all the thrills he wanted here while landing a sturgeon. Curtis had been spearing in eight feet of water when he saw a monster. He jammed the spear deep into its head and after a two-hour tussle landed the big fellow.

The sturgeon was six feet long, and weighed 102 pounds. Dressed it yielded fifty-one pounds of sturgeon meat, twenty-nine pounds of roe.

NINE SUBSTITUTES
VOTED DOWN BY CONVENTION

The following substitute planks were voted down by the convention:

Bryan's bone-dry plank, 925 1/2 against, 155 1/2 for.

Hobson's prohibition plank, without roll call.

Cochran's wet plank, 356 for, 726 1/2 against.

Bryan's official newspaper plank, without roll call.

Bryan's profiteering plank, by acclamation.

Bryan's anti-compulsory military training plank, by acclamation.

Soldiers' bonus, without roll call.

Bryan's League of Nations plank, by acclamation.

Irish plank, 402 1/2 for, 676 against.

Platform adopted by acclamation.

GLASS HAS A HOT
TIME READING
PLATFORM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Senator Glass worked hard at the reading of the platform yesterday, and paused many times to wipe the perspiration from his face.

"It's a hot job," he remarked just after he had read the agricultural plank.

"It's a hot platform," shouted a delegate, and there was a ripple of laughter and cheering.

WOMEN WANT
SECOND PLACE

Vice Presidential Nominee Will Be Determined, However,
By Political Geography.

By DAVID M. CHURCH.
International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Selection of the vice-presidential nominee for the Democratic party is today the problem in geography.

Leaders are hoping to direct the vice-presidential votes in the direction of a man who hails from a section of the country which is opposite to that section wherein dwells the presidential nominee.

The Vice Presidential candidates are being segregated according to their native haunts. Among the Western candidates, secretary of Agriculture Meredith, of Iowa, and Governor Stewart, of Montana, stand out as favorites with the long odds on Meredith.

BOOM FOR SENATOR WALSH.
Friends of Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts are holding him forth as the leading candidate of the East. Among some leaders who are not predicting victory for the Ohio governor in the Presidential race the name of Governor Cox of Ohio is being mentioned as an Eastern possibility for Vice President. Governor Smith of New York has been placed aside as a possibility for the second place on the ticket since New York Democrats gave the word that they wanted him as a gubernatorial candidate in the event that he does not get the Presidential nomination.

SOUTH HAS CANDIDATES.
Brig. Gen. L. D. Tyson, of Tennessee, is the offering of Southern Democracy and his chances are held to be excellent, if the selection of the leader of the ticket does not make it politically unwise to name the second string man for a State east of the Mississippi.

General Tyson with a war record, is being held out as an excellent opportunity for his party to capture the soldier vote.

Summer Holidays

In order to add to the comfort of a loyal store family, we have decided upon ten added holidays for the next sixty days. Our people have deserved this consideration by a winter's sincere effort, and we feel that you will
